Dear Mr. McHugh:

Thank you for your kind letter about my book. Much as I should like to convert you to my way of thinking on any economic subject on which we may happen to disagree, I hate to think of anyone's reading an economic book on Nantucket except on a rainy day. It is one of the loveliest spots in this country, and I hope you don't spoil your enjoyment of it by reading anything there with which you strongly disagree.

Sincerely,

THE EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY

Dear Mr. Hazlitt:

I appreciate very much your sending me an autographed copy of your new book, and I am taking it to Nantucket with me tomorrow for so-called vacation reading. While you label it as one lesson, my first glance at it indicates that if I cover it during my vacation period and understand most of it, I will have accomplished enough to enable me to challenge Leonard Read a little more effectively than I have done in the past.

As ever,

Glenn McHugh
