Gentlemen:

I am returning the book PLANNED CHAOS for $0.67 credit.
You shipped this book to me by your invoice #11254.

I bought this book because I have heard many good things about Ludwig von Mises. I was sadly disappointed by this book. A book which is written to express economic facts must contain accurate historical facts or the reader will reject it.

In reading this book to determine whether or not we wished to stock it, I got only as far as page 16 and then I was forced to reject the book because it does not agree with history.

I am speaking of the sentence at the end of the second paragraph which states, "However, it was only the latter which enabled the United Nations to win the war." Correct me if I am wrong but I know of no war which the United Nations has won. The Second World War war won by the Allied Powers. The Korean War ended in a stalemate and was far from victory.

If this was a typographical error and should have read "States" instead of "Nations", I would recommend that you reset the type, run another printing, and burn your present stock of this book. You may consider that this is throwing the baby out with the bath water, but I consider the difference here to be of the same magnitude as the difference between lightning and a lightning bug.

As you can see by our book orders, we are sympathetic with your cause and would like to see it progress and not regress.

Sincerely yours,

Clinton A. Snow, Jr.
