Foundation for Economic Education
Irvington-on-Hudson, New York

Dear Leonard:

It looks as though I am going to be here on March 10. Will certainly be looking forward to seeing you, and am going to fight valiantly against interference which threatens to take me out of town on that date.

You will be interested to know that our Board of Directors, during our annual convention in New Orleans this week, listened to quite a series of spontaneous speeches from individual members concerning the PPF booklet, and the importance of distributing copies. The secretary to the Board took down some of the comments, and after they are transcribed I will send them along if they look as interesting as they sounded.

Ed Pendray, who edits the Public Relations Journal, has asked permission to print the booklet in full. I assured him that we would all be delighted to have him do so.

Here's hoping some of the cards are coming back up there. We will probably be needing another shipment before too long.

Sincerely yours,

Ed Lipscomb
