

John Jack

February 2, 1965

Dear Baldy:

Your letter of January 28 has arrived ahead of the booklets, so we'll be looking forward to the new format. Meanwhile, our thanks.

I suppose you've heard that our Rocky is proposing a state 2-cent sales tax, which doubtless will complicate our lives further.

All our best!

Sincerely,

PLP:kqb

Dr. F. A. Harper
Executive Vice President
Institute for Humane Studies
Box 3696
Stanford, California

Institute for Humane Studies

Box 3696, Stanford, California

January 28, 1965

Dear Paul:

(separate covers)
Herewith are 150 copies of "Morals and Liberty" which, at the quantity price, appears to me to be the equivalent of what I owe you in the market of exchange. My Thanks to you.

Fortunately, this goes out of the state so the sales tax is not a matter of concern. If it were, a transaction such as this would perplex the ordinary bureaucrat beyond words -- beyond words fit to spit, anyhow.

Sincerely,

Baldy

F. A. Harper
Executive Vice President

Dr. Paul L. Poirot, Editor
THE FREEMAN
30 South Broadway
Irvington-on-Hudson, New York

Jot Jacket # 142

January 13, 1965

Dear Baldy:

By all means, let's have "Morals" again available in the booklet format, with the new title and identification line as proposed. The credit line to FEE would be appreciated, of course, but is not required if it might clutter up your format or proposed distribution system.

Perhaps, when you get the booklet and have a price on it, we can stock some of them as a way of letting persons know of its availability. Meanwhile, we'll keep the piece in our list in the 8½ x 11 format.

Thanks for the news item concerning what's left of Ken Nye.

Sincerely,

PLP:kqb

Dr. F. A. Harper
Executive Vice President
Institute for Humane Studies
Box 3696
Stanford, California

Institute for Humane Studies

Box 3696, Stanford, California

January 10, 1965

Dear Paul:

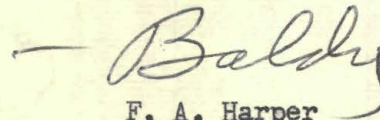

The Institute, in order to service some requests for my "Morals . . ." piece in the desired booklet format unavailable for some years as well as with up-to-date identity of the author, has decided to reprint it. We trust this will enjoy your approval.

Even though the original copyright was in my name, we would appreciate having from you a confirmation of the plan for the record. We shall, of course, give the Foundation for Economic Education the deserved credit as its original publisher.

If and as any requests for copies in this format come to you, you may wish to inform them of its reavailability under the title "Morals and Liberty".

May 1965 bring you much satisfaction in happiness and in accomplishment for which you are so well qualified.

Sincerely,

F. A. Harper
Executive Vice President

Dr. Paul L. Poirot, Editor
The Foundation for Economic Education, Inc.
30 South Broadway
Irvington-on-Hudson, New York

cc: James L. Doenges, President