Dear Hans:

Thanks for the New Orleans collection of orders for books as well as names to be added to the mailing list. Still nothing from C. O. Mann on price or publication date of The Age of Inflation, but we are holding these orders and will hope to fill and bill for them eventually.

Much as I'd hope to encourage Alejandro to continue writing and reporting on the Argentine situation, I seriously question that we should ask him to expand or otherwise revise that latest article. It would require quite a total translation and reworking to be clarified for most of our readers, and I'm not enough on top of conditions there to tackle that task. Hopefully, Bob may be able to help clear up the report after his visit in Juan.

Meanwhile, we do appreciate Alejandro's concern, and yours, for the restoration of the market economy in all countries. I can't assign topics to him, but hope he understands our desire to cooperate in airing his good ideas.

Thanks again, and kindest regards.

Sincerely,

Paul L. Poirot

Paul,

I conducted a seminar in New Orleans where I solicited

3 types of orders:

- 1 for The Freeman,
  - 2 my Death and Taxes
  - 3 my Age of Inflation,
- which should come out some day.

I hope that FEE will want to continue to receive such orders.

Paul, I understand your critique of the Chapuen piece. Would you reconsider it if he were to add a few pages along the lines of your criticism?

I would like to see him in print again. With a little encouragement Chapuen could become a valuable observer of Latin affairs for FEE. He is a libertarian who does not leak.

Do you have other suggestions for him to write on? He will leave us in May.

Regards, Hans
