Dear Editor:

Is Federal disaster relief encouraging victims to rebuild in vulnerable areas? Dr. John W. Sommer offers some compelling arguments -- at a time of year when weather, wind, and water are regularly on the front page.

"Disasters Unlimited" is being offered for exclusive use in your area by The Foundation for Economic Education (FEE), founded in 1946 by Leonard E. Read. FEE is a nonpolitical, nonprofit organization dedicated to the advancement of the free market, private property, limited government system. FEE publishes a monthly journal, The Freeman, with a mailing list of more than 30,000 in the U.S. and abroad.

FEE also holds seminars for lay and professional people, publishes and distributes books and pamphlets, and offers essay contests, lectures, and special seminars for high school and college students. If you have any questions about Dr. Sommer's article, or about The Foundation for Economic Education, please call me at (914) 591-7230.

Sincerely,

Brian Summers
