Dear Friends:

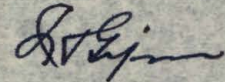

Thank you very much indeed for the prompt attention that you gave to the revised proofs of Bastiat: THE LAW which we are printing for you.

We have received the revised proofs, the original proofs, and the copy back, and have sent all to our workroom with the request that the corrections be carefully made, and that they proceed with the printing.

If you want another revise, please telegraph us upon receipt of this letter. We don't believe it is necessary, but we are perfectly willing to furnish them if you wish.

Yours truly,

The CAXTON PRINTERS, Ltd.

Gentlemen:

As you'll see by duplicate shipping label attached, we've sent you by parcel post under separate cover the revised page proofs of THE LAW, the first page proofs, and the original copy.

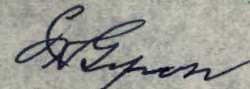

Your request was for two sets of revised page proofs, but we only had time to pull one set in order to get the proofs shipped to you today.

We'll send another set Monday or Tuesday.

We hope you find these proofs just as you want them, and with very best regards, we remain

Yours truly,
