Gentlemen:

Henry Haslitt's article on solving the Government's Farm problem, in my opinion "hits the nail on the head".

This is without a doubt one of the best, and seemingly most painless methods of getting out from under an impossible situation.

Let's hope a few folks in the Administration can overlook petty politics long enough to devote some sound, honest thinking to this Farm Problem.

Until the farm situation is put on the same sane basis as business has been and wants to be, a basis of "supply & demand", the Government's dole program will only lead to ruin.

Enjoyed Mr. Haslitt's article very much.

Yours very truly,

Elmer R. Donald
