Dear Vern:

Thanks for a good job on the index, under pressure and other difficulties. We hope it didn't dig too heavily into your other work and plans.

May the balance of your stay there, and return passage be pleasant and educational. And thanks again until better paid.

Sincerely,

PLP:kqb

Dear Dr. Poirot:

Thank you very much for the pages of Mr. Read's book and your kind letter received yesterday.

I am inclosing here the index. Trying to pin down a typewriter turns out to be quite a project, in spite of promises. Everything is with a smile and, "Ah, yes, tomorrow for sure." At least I trust the one I dug up has produced a readable job.

As usual, do what you wish with the index: add or delete. I've tried not to make it too long, as you indicated in your letter.

This has been quite an experience here. Such abject poverty I couldn't have imagined. Count our blessings!

Best wishes,

Vern
