

Mr. Hazlitt: Carbon of card to Clifton Utley, NBC commentator.

FEB 1 1957

It surely is good to have you back again, these days, on the Sunday night air. It would be better to have you back in the 10pm-nightly slot, but anyway we can hope.

You have been, I think--whether by intention or not--the most brilliant attacker of the theory most ably presented by Henry Hazlitt, that our foreign-aid billions are worse than wasted all around. But his latest (and I think ablest) blast, in the Jan. 28 Newsweek, seems to call for something even better from you than you have done before. You could also--faithful Democrat that you are--light into his habitual assumption that the Dulles policy (whatever it is) is but a continuation of Acheson's.

Awaiting, in anticipation--
